About me.

Design is more than just aesthetics for me; it's about conveying a message, an emotion, or a thought. As Albert Einstein said, "Imagination is more important than knowledge." This quote perfectly captures my belief that imagination drives impactful design.

Design surrounds us in our daily lives, shaping the identity of brands, companies, and individuals. My path of independent learning into design reflects my passion for creating visual experiences that connect deeply with people. From early projects with companies to becoming an entrepreneur, I'm driven by the power of design to transform ideas into compelling narratives.
